

Think Pink(berry)

We're not saying
the girls on "The Hills"

are role models, by any means, but if a little non-fat fro-yo can help them look that good (so what if they're in their 20s with no kids?!), we're IN. Landing at the Irvine Spectrum in February and coming to Fashion Island in March (already in Huntington Beach), this isn't just any frozen yogurt, this is the non-fat nectar of Hollywood gods and goddesses, who line up for it at the tiny original West Hollywood location where they even have a "last call" at 10:45 p.m. (not just for Lindsay Lohan). Choose from plain or green tea flavored yogurt and a variety of healthy toppings, including fresh fruit, nuts, and cereal (Cap'n Crunch! Fruity and Cocoa Pebbles!). The shop also serves all-natural smoothies and shaved ice.

Pinkberry, coming soon to Fashion Island, currently at The Irvine Spectrum and in Huntington Beach at 7811 Edinger Ave., #116, (714) 372-3333, pinkberry.com

5 -Star, No-Jar Baby Food

You don't have the time – or the desire – to spend your Sunday afternoons puréeing organic vegetables for your baby or toddler (sorry Jessica Seinfeld). And why should you, when there's Pomme

Bebe? Here, a health-minded mom and a five-star chef will whip up fresh, organic, gourmet-to-go meals for your precious little one. They'll even bring it out to your car, curbside, or deliver to your front door. Better yet, visit this darling store in Newport's Westcliff Plaza where your tot can baby-belly-up to the tasting bar while you catch up with a girlfriend. Pomme Bebe, 2043 Westcliff Drive, #106, Newport Beach (949) 200-7430, pommebebe.com

Catch this Flight on Date Night...

...or early evening, with tots in tow.

Since the demise of Aire, we've been looking for the next super-hip spot that feels like a club, but dines like a restaurant. A place to enjoy small tastes and big flavors while sipping "adult beverages" from a cocktail menu worthy of Carrie Bradshaw. Enter Flight Bistro and Social Lounge in Huntington Beach, which brings a club vibe and the culinary coolness of Executive Chef John Gladish (of Beverly Hills Hotel, Regent Beverly Wilshire, N9NE Steakhouse and too many other hot Hollywood hang-outs to name here) to The OC. Start with a flight of meats or cheeses, or our favorites, the bruschetta trio or hummus duo. Then, go for the Kobe-style flat iron steak with pommes frites or the pan roasted Atlantic salmon with mashed potatoes. Have the kids share the Kobe burger with fries. Finish with the Chocolate Marshmallow Spring Rolls (and another Lemon Drop). And, the service is first-class (not coach). Flight Bistro and Social Lounge, 8082 Adams Avenue, Huntington Beach, (714) 374-8300, flightoc.com
